Aliens could have been on Earth, but this is something that we do not know for certain.

First of all, a lot of people say that they have seen UFO sor aliens or strange things that cannot be explained, but there aren’t any evidences.

Secondly, the universo is supposed to be infinite and for this reason it sounds logical that in other galaxies life could be a possibility, because in our Galaxy there is a planet, our planet, in which there is life. Why should we be the only ones? Maybe in othe similar galaxies there are people like us or maybe, due to different characteristics, there are other living things that we do not know.

To sum up, we don not know any other species or aliens from other planets, but it is a possibility. What if people who say that have seen aliens are right? Maybe future will say...

En este ejercicio se propone una solución, pero no es la única posible

It is very difficult to decide only one invention as the most revolutionary of mankind.

On the one hand, discoveries like fire made a huge difference and they let humanity develop to more important inventions. The train or the first engine are maybe two of the most important inventions that were decisive to our modern society.

On the other hand, inventions like peniciline or medicines have been also very important in mankind history. Electricity has allowed us to live in better conditions and, nowadays, it is necessary for all modern devices as smartphones or computers.

In conclusion, all inventions are important. We must appreciate them, to recognise their value in our lives and enjoy them as a big opportunity.
