Personally I think that this is a very controversial issue and lot of people have different opinions about it and al lof us should be respected.

On the one hand, being single is good for many reasons. From my point of view being single allows you to do a lot of things in your life, specially if you don’t have a couple and you don’t have to plan your plans with anybody else. That way you can do what you want, for instance, making your own plans, going to restaurants, concerts... And if you are single but you have a boyfriend or a girlfriend, you can be free to organise your money ori f you Split up yo don’t have to worry about documents or things like that.

On the other hand, being married is a bond that is beautiful, you make a promise that will last forever. You can be more vulnerable in case of divorce, because sometimes women decide to stay at home and they stop working to be with their children, and they are not economically independent.

In spite of the fact that some people support my opinion, there are other people who have different reasons.

To sump up, it is difficult decisión but I think it is slightly better to be a single.

I think that they are very important for many reasons. There are a lot of humanitarian organisations and volunteers but they are still needed.

First of all, they are important because some people in need cannot fight for their own rights, so they need other people’s voices to help them to solve the situation. Secondly, these organisations know the places and their problems so they can be really helpful with these problems. Moreover, when there is a disaster relief people become vulnerable and all help is welcome.

Apart from people, global warming and greenhouse effect are two realities of the pollution caused by humans. They try to save the planet and to make up people’s minds to change the current situation.

To sum up, I think that this kind of organisation are really important.
